As a religious man he felt the union would make for the furtherance of religion. As a Canadian he believed it would be of great benefit. He would point out to the committee that the union forces were not asking the committee to decide whether or not church union was good for the churches. Hightly or wrongly the three churches involved had decided in favor of church union. The committee was asked only to give effect to a resolve already made by the churches. MACDONALD ISSUES

GREAT INTEREST IN CHURCH UNION BILL

For more than a score of years there had been throughout Canada a growing movement to put an end to such denominational feeling. In new communities it was common to find clergymen giving religion and service to the whole community without creed or proselyting.

GROWTH OF MOVEMENT

Sir Robert described the growth of the church union movement. It had arisen out of practical conditions, and the three churches having most in common had come together. It was found that the Methodist Church was growing more and more like the Presbyterian in church government. The Presbyterians were perhaps growing more like the Methodists In doctrine. The Congregationalists had given up the most, but they had come in.

PRESBYTERIAN VOTES

PRESSYTERIAN VOTES

In 1910 the Presbyterian General Assembly had sent the matter down to the presbyteries under the Barrier Act and had gone beyond that and called for a vote of the people. In this popular vote only seventeen per cent. voted against union. Later a second popular vote was taken, it being put forward as a decisive vote, and the vote as a result rose only to twenty-two per cent. Out of seventy-six presbyteries only thirteen voted against union and there were three ties. The next step was the vote at the Winnipeb Assembly of 1916, in which a majority vote of 815 in favor of union was given. This was the first step of the Presbyterian General Assembly and it was thoroughly constitutional.

An abundance of excitement is offered at the Columbia Theatre this week, where Tom Mix shoots through "North of the Yukon," a William Fox production, like a meteor. The first thing which strikes the attention about this production is the total absence of dragged-in "thrilis." This is the reason that the excitement offered is doubly effective.

The picture concerns the adventures of Michael Dane, played by Tom Mix, who is made a dupe of the passions of more worldly men.

From every point of view this is an unusual film. Tom Mix is surrounded by a cast of ability. BRITAIN'S FIRST LABOR BUDGET

THE first fact that stands out in the first Labor budget which was brought before the British House of Commons yesterday with the speech of the Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is that it is very much the same kind of a budget that might have been brought in by either of the old parties. There is to be found in it none of the socialistic, capital-confiscating proposals, the very ago, when the Labor Government assumed power, to participate in an exchange-demoraliz-ing rush to get their money and securities out of the country.

Of course, despite the early predictions of what the radical and calculating Snowden would do in his budget, it has since become apparent to all that there would be nothing in the budget to upset society generally. This has been clear from the general attitude of the Labor party leaders since taking office, the fact that the financial part of the budget was partly a legacy from the former Government, and the fact that Labor could not put anything extreme through the House, anyway, and shown no desire to give up office so soon.

The elimination of the import duty on dried fruits, the big cuts made in the duties on sugar, cocoa, coffee and tea are what might have been expected of any government after the emphatic majority against import tariffs in the election last December. Wiping out the amusement tax on cheap seats is merely in keep-ing with the tendency in other countries during the last year.

Business is even aided by the abolition of the corporation profits tax, which has been a the corporation profits tax, which has been a nuisance and has worked against the expansion of industry and employment in the country through confiscating profits which are normally re-invested in business.

The controversial part of the budget and that which in its results will have a direct bearing upon Canada, is the proposal to abolish the McKenna duties. These duties under the Safeguarding of Industries Act gave the protection afforded by a 33 1-3 per cent, tariff to certain key industries, includper cent. tariff to certain key industries, includng those producing motor cars, pianos, watches, ing those producing motor cars, pianos, watches, clocks and motion picture films. It is said that the dropping of these duties will mean the death of the moving picture industry in England, which in its best years was never able to reach healthy proportions. The industries affected will naturally cause vigorous protest to be made on their behalf to have the duties retained.

It is the automobile duty, however, that has the direct bearing on Canada, as the greater part of the $60,000,000 of motor cars exported by Canada last year went to Britain because of the preference given under the Mc-kenna duties to goods manufactured in British countries. Now the British market will be thrown open to the low-priced American auto-mobiles, and the Canadian factories—which are American owned—will have to come down to the American prices in the British market or curtail their manufacturing to what is necessary for Canadian consumption and to meet the demand in a few countries such as France where Canada still has the advantage of pref-

The question of Dominion preference comes up in the budget through the Chancellor's announcement that "we on this side of the House never believed that the interests of the Empire would be best served in the long run by a system of tariffs" and that the Labor Covernment is unable to endorse the late Government's' Dominion preference proposals." These proposals were formulated by the Baldwin Government following the discussions at the Imperial Conference last year. They were the issue in the British elections last December when the result was such that there was little doubt left as to the attitude of the people of Britain towards them. The proposals are brought up now merely as a matter of form because of the late Government's pledge that they would be submitted to the Commons

The surplus for 1923 of £48,329,000 after meeting all debt costs must be highly gratifying to the British people. But it really has nothing to do with the Labor Government as it was achieved before they came into office.

There is nothing radical, from the stand-point of a low tariff advocate, in this budget. Income and property taxes have not been touched. What might happen in the future if Labor should have a majority in the House, or should be seeking the means of gaining a majority in the country, is a different matter.

Solito de Solia, brilliant Italian pianist, was forced to cancel his recital in London because of a broken finger-nail. To adapt an old rhyme, for the want of a nail the concert was lost.

One of the features of the Empire Exhibition at Wembley is a life-size statue in butter of the Prince of Wales on horseback before his Alberta rench. As the Prince is setting the styles in England, it may soon be as much the thing to be done in butter as to be done in capitals on capitals.

IEUT. PELLETIER DOISY, the French airman who is flying from Paris to Tokio has arrived at Karachi. He has flown 6,000 kilometres or more than 3,700 miles in five days. Stuart MacLaren, the British aviator who is flying around the world, is still at Parlu, India, awaiting repairs to his machine. He has gone a little more than 5,400 miles in thirty-six days. The round-the-world fliers from the United States are at Chignik and Dutch Harbor, Alaska, trying to get together to cross to Siberia via the Aleutians. But he is not attempting to fly around the world. He is using a machine specially adapted to speed and hopes to reach Tokio, his objective, in a series of swift spurts. His audacity may be rewarded with success but the most difficult part of his journey lies ahead of him. Both the British and American round-the-world fliers are a long way behind their schedules, owing to machine The former, however, has a considerable lead over the expedition from the south of us in mileage covered and time con-

SHOULD NOT CLOSE IT

IT MAY be taken for granted that in view of the representations of those who have large capital investments in the district tribu-tary to the Victoria West firehall and the object lesson presented by the fire at the Chol-berg Shipyards a few days ago, the City Council will not order the closing of that branch of Victoria's fire-fighting service. The risk would be altogether too great.
everybody realizes the need of the utmoomy in the administration of our public services it is still more important that public life and property shall have adequate protec-tion. Closing firehalls is not sound economy in any case, unless it can be shown that we have more than are required for the efficient operation of this vital service. Closing a fireoperation of this vital service. Closing a fire-hall which can most conveniently serve an area in which millions of dollars worth of inflam-mable property is situated might very shortly turn out to be ruinous extravagance.

A GOOD SUGGESTION

THE suggestion, made at a meeting of the Greater Victoria community effort com-Greater Victoria community effort committee yesterday, that an annual Made-in-Victoria Fair be held in this city ought to meet with favorable action. This community needs a good deal of educating in the desirability of patronizing home products, and a yearly exhibition displaying the things produced by local industry would be an excellent factor in that process. It would help to stimulate least net retrieting promote community spirit late local patriotism, promote community spirit and enterprise and bring about the co-operation between our citizens without which no-city, no matter how generously endowed by nature, can be built up. THEY DO NOT MIX

A FAMILY of seven set out in their motor car from their home in Los Angeles on a holiday trip to British Columbia. In Seattle Sunday night the sixteen-year-old son went for a drive around town, met two friends and visited a bootlegger.

An hour later the family car had been wrecked and the son was in jail on a man-slaughter charge. With his brain crazed he drove his car full speed into a crowd coming out of a theatre. He hit one man so hard he sent him whirling in the air. The man had been killed instantly.

Even after that the youth drove furiously down a traffic crowded street until the ride came to an end when the car had a wheel torn off in turning a corner and was smashed against a bulkhead. The holiday tour has ended with the mother visiting her son in jail.

No safe way has yet been found of mixing alcohol and gasoline outside of the laboratory.

From the comments that appear in the newspapers across the continent on the action of the Philadelphia jury in declaring Harry K. Thaw sane and fit to be set free, some people seem to doubt the sanity of the jury.

The reverend gentleman is correct.

The sex appeal is all there is to dancing.

But does that condemn 11?

The attraction between man and woman is the most powerful, insistent and unescapable of all the natural emotions.

And the thing to do with a natural emotion is to idealize it, not suppress it.

It is of no use for people, even preachers, to attempt to escape being human. They are liable to become devilish.

When Mob Burned Parliament Buildings

THE REBELLION LOSSES BILL, which ended a long and bitter controversy, gave compensation to those in Lower Canada who had suffered loss during the Rebellion of 1837. Undoubtedly there were some who would a benefit who were at least passive rebels. It was the Reform administration under Mr. Baldwin for Upper Canada and Mr. Lafontaine for Lower Canada which sponsored the bill and forced it through against the bitterest opposition on the part of the Tories. When the Assembly had passed the bill the Tories transferred their struggle to Government House and used every pressure to induce the Governor to veto the bill or, at least to reserve it for Her Majesty's personal consideration, a procedure which usually meant a sort of painless extinction. The Governor, Lord Eigin, son-in-law and disciple of that great Liberal peer, Lord Durham, was firm, however. His Executive Council, which was rapidly developing into the modern cabinet, had advised him to sign the bill passed by a majority of the House; the Council possessed the confidence of a large majority in the House and also in the country, for nothing had happened since theories on his responsibility as a constitutional ruler were clear-cut and advanced, decided that he had no alternative but to sign, though personally he objected to many provisions of the bill. He might reserve the bill for Her Majesty's pleasure but, as it might easily be rejected on the advice of the Home Ministry, this course would only cause bitterness against the restraints of the Imperial control. It would be better that he should be sacrificed, if necessary, than that the Cown should incur odium.

O MAPRIL 25 he signed the bill. The seat of THE REBELLION LOSSES BILL, which ON APRIL 25 he signed the bill. The seat of

ON APRIL 25 he signed the bill. The seat of Government was at that time Montreal. While the Governor was inside the Parliament Buildings a large crowd assembled. As he came out, the crowd, Tory in sympathy and to a large extent under direction, it would seem, hooted, hissed and shouted insults. The rictous spirit developing rapidly, numbers took short cuts to waylay the vice-regal carriage on its way to Monkiands. Lord Elgin's country house. Sufficient of them succeeded in arriving in time on the route to spatter the carriage with rotton eggs—a missile which argues that the affair was planned beforehand and prepared for. Even paying stones were used and one crashed through to wound His Lordship's aide, Major Bruce.

That night, under the direction of a small group of well-dressed men the mol collected on the Champ de Mara and moved to the Parliament Buildings not far away. The House was sitting. In a moment flame rolled up with clouds of smoke and none knew who had set the match. Little was saved except the portrait of the Queen and the mace. The library was a total loss with all its priceless records of our early history. This crowned Montreal's disgrace on this occasion and affected the future of the country, for Montreal thereby lost its opportunity of becoming the capital of the Dominion to be.

For the future it was arranged that Parliament should meet in Toronto and Quebec by turns each five years and that Montreal should never again be the capital. This most awkward arrangement was terminated fifteen years later with the choosing of the site of Ottawa as capital.

THE ROMANCE OF FLOWERS

For Uncounted Ages They Have Been Waven Into Life of Man

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer

Thanks to the human heart by which we live,
Thanks to the human heart by which we live,
Thanks to its tenderness, its Joys and fears,
To me the meanest dower that blows can give
Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.
In these lines has Wordsworth given expression to the lenguage, the romance and the symbolism of the world of flowers.
For uncounted ages has this soft bit of color, this "little fragment of the rainbow," as Ruskin so aptly terms it, been woven into the very warp and woof of human kind.
Rude sketches of flowers appear in prehistoric caves. Flowers have been rhapsodized over by painter, musician, poet and prose writer from the days when the first glimmerings of intelligence, and therefore of beauty, were beginning to penetrate the thick skulls of our ancestors.
And that great love has been carried down the corridors of the centuries.

Early these flaming masses of nature's lovellness were transplanted from the sunny meadow and the shadows of woodland to the gardens of men. Men and women wanted them before their eyes without taking the trouble to go far from their homes. Kinga and queens filled their palaces. Wives of humble peasants bronght them from the wild places and set them out around their cottages. From The Cleveland Plain Dealer

Do these belong to fanitor or school teachers, these same being paid out of the taxpayers' money? If so, why the distinction? I have always understood that public school grounds are public property, the same as the Parliament square gardens, and in no case should an elderly person, or nurse going on duty be told by a fanitor to "keep out." Are parents who wish to visit the school to be refused permission to do so?

If school grounds are to be treated as private property, then I must ask the aldemen to insist that our boulevard and gardens are protected from public school children and pedestrians, also that our roads are not used for playgrounds.

Local Oarsmen Are Getting Ready For Wonderful Season

Rowers Have Been Out on Water and Are Prepping up For Spring Regatta

Expect to do Well at N.P.A. A.O. Regatta This Summer With New Boats

In order to be in the best of shape for the crucial tests at the N.P.A.O. regatta at Vancouver this year the J.B.A.A. oarsmen have taken to their training earlier than usual.

J.B.A.A. oarsmen have taken to their training earlier the, usual.

Coach Dan O'Sullivan has had the boats out for several weeks, and the 'Bluebird,'' the speed boat from which Dan directs the oarsmen, is ready for launching and will be tuned up at once to chase the boats.

The real coaching will begin early this month. Coach O'Sullivan is confronted with the problem of moulding several new crews for the premier regatta of the Pacific Northwest. He has been trying for several years to get a crew that would win the senior fours, but each time has been disappointed. Last year the starjuntor crew finished second to Vancouver. It was expected that this crew would have brought home the classic, but it failed. So now Dan is once again going out to try and get a crew that will win for him.

GOOD MEN IN LINE

OOD MEN IN LINE Many new oarsmen are turning out this year and there will be plenty of material to pick from. Coach O'Sullivan will give every man a careful grooming, and when the time comes to select the men for the four places in the boat he should have some mighty stalwart men to draw from. The Bays will hold, their first regatta of the season. It will be knownast he Spring regatta, and will be staged at the Gorge.

Four crews have been picked for this event, and the strokes have already had their men out on the water tuning up.

night by defeating Mike Romano. Italian challenger, in two out of three falls. Several thousand spectators, inturiated at the decision of Referee Charles Lavine giving Lewis his second fall, showered the champion and referee with pop bottles as the match concluded.

Lewis, Romano and Lavine remained in the ring as the match ended and Romano's manager started a fist fight with the referee, claiming Lavine had given Lewis the deciding fall before Romano was pinned to the mat. The police surrounded the ring and stopped the fight when the crowd, apparently siding with Romano, started to sling bottles into the ring by the hundreds. No one was hurt, but Lewis was kept in the ring by a cordon of police and taken to his hotel in a patrol wagon.

Lewis won the first fall in $1.20 with a toe lock and Romano took the second in 12.50 after applying twenty successive headlocks. Lewis took the third fall in $1.0 with a dour life in the reference of the refer

Horses Are Getting Into Fine Shape at Toronto's Big Track

Toronto, April 30—Fine weather and much improved track conditions is aiding trainers at Woodbine Park in preparing their candidates for the King's Plate, the oldest face run continuously on the American continent, which will be run this year on the opening day of the Ontario Jockey Club's Spring meeting, Saturday, May 17.

Entries for forty-six, of whom thirty-eight are owned by different nominators, were received prior to the closing of the lists on March 12. The race for the guineas this year, the sixty-fifth renewal, promises to be an unusually "open" one, according to reports around training quarters. At least a dozen owners are of the opinion that they have already won the race and that the running of the historic event and the presentation of the King's guineas is more or less a formality.

The field probably will be see cold.

One of the biggest jobs done at a local yard for some time will be completed when the Victoria Machinery Depot turns over the Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Adelaide to her owners again to-morrow night. Extensive boiler and furance repairs have been effected during the month. One hundred and fifty six boiler tubes and eighty stay tubes have been installed. This alone should add an extra knot to her present speed. Furances and combustion chambers of two boilers were cut out and new centre combustion and side combustion chambers fitted. A new set of furnaces were installed and new stay and plain tubes to each combustion chambers also installed. Other repairs included the taking out of nine defective deck plates and renewing them. The Adelaide will resume service as soon as she is turned over to her owners. The Princess Victoria is now undergoing her annual Spring overhaul.

New York, April 30 (R. P. Clark & O., Ltd.)—In certain respects the tock market to-day was a disapiointment. New York, April 30 (By B.A. Bond)

—The stock market was subjected to a good deal of pressure to-day. This was expected, as it was generally supposed that the professional trader would sell the market on the announcement of the Steel Corporation dividend. The remarks of the Steel Corporation president were considered a little bearish, but it was thought a frank statement could do little harm. The decline extended to three points in Stewart Warner, which sold ex-dividend to-day, and Studebaker made a new low at 80½ just before the announcement that the directors of this company had declared one per cent, quarterly dividend on the new issue. This equals the old rais on the $100 par stock. After mid-session the market showed considerable atrength with market leaders such as Baldwin, American Can and Studebaker rising above the morning's high levels. Good market "Observers claim to see sood support throughout the list and think the cream is off the short side of the market. However, a sustained advance is anticipated immediately, and some of the weaker Issues may fall a little further, but no doubt there is good buying in some of the better class of industrials and rails. Pessimistic talk has been overdone, and the market has discounted a good deal, if not all of the business depression of the pust few months.

It was announced after the close that the Federal Reserve re-discount rate had been cut one-half of one-per cent. to four per cent. This will have a buillish effect at to-motrow's openius.

while there has been a decline in the value of building permits for April, and for the first four months of the year, as compared with 1923, special circumstances created this condition.

There were forty-two permits issued in April in Victoria as compared with thirty-four in April 1923, the value being $30.264. empared with $123.950 value to date this year, the corresponding total of $349.054 looks large, but two permits last year, for the Douglas Street branch of the Bank of Montreal, and for the East Wing of the Jubilee Hospital, each approximating $130.606, represent the difference between the small total of this year and the large ones for the first four months of hast year. Thus on analysis it will be seen that there has been no cessition of home building, and minor structures, although some of the larger undertakings are now completed.

Two concrete proposals came out of the meeting of the Greater Victoria co-operating committee last evening. The directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be asked to select a committee of eight representatives of the four municipalities, independent of political and municipal men, to make an investigation.

The other was to re-establish a home products fair similar to that taken up and carried through for four years successfully.

What Experts Say

This formula perfected by French experts, is based on lifetimes of hair study. They gave me these reasons for its amazing results.

It combats the hardened oil and dandriff which stiffe the hair roots. They check the hair growth and destroy the hair. They choke the pisting ment which gives color to the hair. Thus it cleans the scalp, then it stimulates and fertilizes. Hair thrives under these conditions, just as flowers thrive in a well-kept garden.

It cannot harm the hair. It does not affect hair color, natural or artificial. It deals only with the scalp the soil of the hair. And all the report the soil of the hair. And all the report of the hair ficial. It deals only with the scalp the soil of the hair. And all the report of the hair ficial. It deals only with the scalp the soil of the hair. And all the report of the hair and hair beauty.

So I am convinced that it does for hair health and hair beauty. Every dealer sells my Hair Youth may hair Youth does.

Notice to Breeders of Livestock

Mr. Erick Bowman, the discoverer of The Bowman Remedy, claims that in treating 70,000 cattle in the United States the results have been successful in 98% of the cases treated. Are your dairy cows and heifers causing you trouble?

Are you obtaining results in calves and milk that satisfy you?

Do your cows (according to your knowledge of their capacity) produce as much milk as they should—or are you marking time and feeding a number of boarders that should be sent to the butcher? These are matters that can be put right. Delays are fatal. Why

Capitol Theatre Monday

In response to the wishes of the campaign managers of the different queens in the May Queen contest, it has been decided to launch the competition on Saturday morning instead of waiting until the following Monday, the date originally selected for the commencement. This decision was made at a meeting of the various managers and H. S. Stevenson, chairman of the queen contest committee, last night, when it was pointed out that Saturday was the most advantageous day by reason of the numerous visitors in the city doing their week-end shopping. The representatives of the queen of sport in particular expected to make good use of Saturday.

The public will be given the opportunity to make the acquaintance of the queens on Monday night when they will appear on the stage of the Capitol Theatref for a few minutes. The campaign managers will be with them, and will make appeals to the audience for support for their candidates.

The campaign managers will be with them, and will make appeals to the audience for support for their candidates.

In addition to the two hats and $50 in cash donated by the South African Plume Shop to be given to the successful queen, there will be a prize for the candidate leading at the end of the first week of polling. This will be a hat or some article of wearing apparel donated by a merchant.

GOING TO SEATTLE

"I intend to hold a campaign in Seattle next Fall. I was there recently and approached by several and asked if they should go ahead with a tabernacle, as no building could be secured large enough in which to hold the campaign. They stated that the building would cost $7,000, and wanted to know if they would go ahead and raise the money. I replied that I would give them my personal cheque for the building of the tabernacle as soon as I had decided when the campaign should be held. This is how I use my surplus moner by preparing campaigns in other cities.
